ABOUT TED

The TED series, a flagship program of YIN, is a leading annual summit that brings together technology leaders, government officials, investors, and innovators to discuss key challenges and opportunities in Nigeria's digital and energy landscape. Since its inception, TED has successfully influenced policy recommendations, investment strategies, and innovative solutions that drive economic development.

TED provides a space where global best practices are discussed, technological advancements are showcased, and networking opportunity drive long-term collaborations.

The Technology Ecosystem Dialogue (TED) series is a premier convergence platform where industry leaders, innovators, policymakers, and change makers explore transformative trends and opportunities in the tech space. Now in its 3rd edition, TED continues to drive conversations that shape Africa's digital and energy futures.

This year, we delve into the Green Tech & Energy Revolution, spotlighting innovations and strategies that are redefined.

About last TED series

At our last TED Series, we hosted 500+ passionate participants including young innovators, policy advocates, startup founders, and changemakers from across Nigeria. The event featured keynote sessions, breakout labs, and an interactive Innovation Hub, where ideas came to life through live demos, prototypes, and tech showcases.

What made the experience remarkable wasn't just the turnout, but the energy, depth, and urgency of the conversations that took place all focused on solving real problems through innovation and collaboration. The success of that edition firmly positioned Young Innovators of Nigeria (YIN) as a national convener for youth-driven transformation. Now, with the upcoming TED Summit 2025, we are scaling impact even further.
